++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Increasingly cloudy but largely dry today.

Today:
A chilly start on Monday under clear intervals but becoming increasingly cloudy through the day. Remaining largely dry but some patchy rain may work into western counties before dusk, as the southwesterly breeze picks up. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Largely cloudy overnight and whilst mostly dry, some occasional drizzle is possible in places. The southwesterly breeze and plenty of cloud cover will ensure it remains mild. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tuesday:
A dry start, if rather grey and murky for some. Perhaps briefly becoming brighter before thicker cloud spills down from the northwest, bringing light rain or drizzle later. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Further spells of rain possible on Wednesday. Drying up on Thursday and Friday with brighter intervals developing once morning fog clears. Daytime temperatures still a little above average.
